5 Lessons Small Business Should Learn from Recent Cyber Attacks

Small businesses are in a particularly disadvantaged position when it comes to cyber attacks. Since many are unaware of the dangers they are already facing, cyber security is more of an afterthought. However, the truth is that an estimated 43 percent of cyber attacks target small businesses, which means you can't afford to learn from recent attacks. Read more »

Visa Aims to Help Small Businesses Go Cashless

Offering 50 small businesses up to $10k each to update their digital payment technology, Visa Inc.'s Cashless Challenge is looking for business owners committed to taking their operation cashless. To have a chance to participate in the challenge, business owners need to describe what going cashless means for their company and customers – and if selected, will have to put the money to updating their point-of-sale system and fully embrace going cashless.
